USEFUL REFERENCE SERIES NO. 62

CHILDREN'S POETRY INDEX

By MAUD R. MACPHERSON

50 Collections of poetry, containing 12,000 poems in three alphabets; Author, Title and Subject. To facilitate quick usage a card key of symbols of poetry anthologies indexed is included with each book.

The collections indexed were recommended by librarians and school teachers as those most frequently found in public and school libraries.

xxx+453 pp., Cloth $5.00

SMALL DIRECTORY OF ADDRESSES

By MAHALA SAVILLE

This book is designed primarily for reference workers, librarians in small libraries, school teachers and others who need frequent access to addresses in the book, magazine and general library trade. The intention was to cover the fields most frequently requested and to include in so far as possible a number of the principal addresses for each subject.

77 pp., Cloth $1.25

CLASSIFIED LIST OF PERIODICALS FOR THE COLLEGE LIBRARY

By GUY R. LYLE and VIRGINIA M. TRUMPER

OUR FRONTISPIECE

MILTON EDWARD LORD

By Walter B. Briggs

Dynamic, according to the Concise Oxford Dictionary means active, potent, energetic. A review of the professional career of the Director of the Boston Public Library certainly reveals a dynamic individual, one who early elected to enter the library profession, and with intelligence and hard work steadily advanced to positions of increased influence and responsibility.

Entering Harvard College with the Class of 1919, one of the college classes most affected by the war, he left at the end of his sophomore year to enter the Heavy Artillery Officers' Training Camp at Fort Monroe, Virginia. At the end of the war, he received an honorable discharge, with an officer's commission in the Coast Artillery Officers' Reserve Corps.

Returning to college, he worked part-time in the Harvard Library, in the Reference and Circulation departments, until he obtained his degree. Then until 1925, he continued as a full-time member of the Harvard Library staff, where his ability and personality attracted general attention. When the position of Librarian of the American Academy in Rome became vacant Professor E. K. Rand, a trustee of that institution recommended Mr. Lord for the position, to which he was elected. Before taking up his new duties, he spent the winter of 1925–26 in Paris, studying at the École des Sciences Politiques and at the Sorbonne.

He went to Rome in the autumn of 1926. During these four years, in addition to his work at the Academy, he served as one of the five members of a commission of American librarians in starting the recataloguing of the Vatican Library. The members of the commission were William Warner Bishop, Chairman, J. C. M. Hanson, Charles Martel, W. M. Randall, and Milton E. Lord. He also took an active part in preparing for the International Library Congress held in Rome in June, 1929. His summer vacations were spent in visiting nearly every European country.

In September, 1928, he married Rosamond Lane, daughter of Mr. William C. Lane, Librarian of Harvard College.

Mr. Lord returned to the United States in the summer of 1930 and was offered and accepted the office of Director of Libraries and of the Library School of the State University of Iowa.

During the winter of 1930–31, the Trustees of the Boston Public Library, in view of the poor health of Mr. Belden, the Director, were looking for the right person to become Assistant Director and had requested Mr. Lord to consider this position. Before the negotiations were concluded, Mr. Belden died, and the Trustees, offered Mr. Lord the position of Director. He accepted and took office in February, 1932.

One cannot conceive of a better preparation for the head of a great library than that possessed by Mr. Lord. An unusual background of education, both by formal study and by wide travel, increasingly more important professional positions demanding technical knowledge, and what sometimes receives less emphasis than it deserves, the ability to deal not only with the general public but with trustees and city officials, and last but not least with his staff. Mr. Lord has shown to an unusual degree this ability and the Boston Public Library has made marked progress under his administration.

Mr. Lord has taken an active part in the work of the various committees of the American Library Association; a member of its Council and of the Executive Board; Chairman of its International Relations Committee; a member of the Advisory Committee of the Association of Research Libraries. In May, 1935, he was an official delegate of the A. L. A. and the United States Government to the Second International Congress of Libraries and of Bibliography, held in Madrid, Seville and Barcelona.

In one of his returns to a report of the Harvard Class of 1919 Mr. Lord writes that while "my personal pleasure is centered in my growing family, much additional satisfaction is obtained from walking, mountain climbing, music, poetry, foreign languages, reading, travel." Truly a dynamic individual.

MAGAZINE NOTES

By Albert H. Davis

(See also Births and Deaths in the Periodical World. Page 00)

Abendschule, Die, has been discontinued.

Actividad did not publish the October 15th, 1940, issue owing to a strike of the Monterey Light and Power Company. This issue was combined with the November 1st, 1940 issue.

Advertising World, London, has been temporarily suspended.

America's Future will be published at irregular intervals. No new subscriptions will be taken.

The American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology Transactions have in the past been issued in one bound volume. In the future they will appear in a bi-monthly magazine under the title Transactions of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology. Libraries of approved medical schools, and a few other large medical libraries, are to receive a copy of each issue free. To assist members and libraries to maintain their Transactions file bound as heretofore, the publisher will print extra copies of each issue which, at the end of the year, can be bound in book form at a cost of $3.00.

The American Association of Mental Deficiency, Proceedings, has changed its title to The American Journal of Mental Deficiency, with vol. xlv, no. 1, July, 1940. It is to be published quarterly. Subscription price is $4.00 per year.

The American Quarterly on the Soviet Union and the Bulletin on the Soviet Union has been changed to The American Review on the Soviet Union. 6 nos. a year. Subscription price $1.50; foreign $2.50.

Annals of Dentistry is behind in issue. When the 1940 volume is completed the Annals will be published in two issues a year, June and September. Subscription price $2.00 a year.

The Archaeological Institute of America Bulletin has reduced its price from $1.50 to $1.00 a year. Subscriptions paid at the old rate will receive credit on 1942 orders.

Astrophysical Journal formerly published monthly, except February and August, is changed to bi-monthly with July, 1940. Vol. 92 was completed with no. 3, November, 1940. Vol. 93, no. 1, is January–February, 1941.

Bibliografia General Espanola e HispanoAmericana resumed publication with February, 1941, as a bi-monthly. The first issue to contain Bibliographical References from 1936 to the present time.

Bowler and Sports Review is now called Bowler and Bowling Management.

Buchdrucker-Zeitung ceased publication with the July, 1940, issue, which was marked Abschiedsnummer, instead of vol. 68, no. 1.

Bulletin International de Federation International de l'Enseignement Secondaire (International Federation of Secondary Teachers) has been discontinued.

Citizen's League Bulletin has been discontinued.

Collector's Guide (monthly) is to be again published quarterly, beginning with January, 1941. Subscriptions paid for one year at $2.00 rate will receive twelve issues, probably covering a period of three years.

Cost Accountant, London, previously issued monthly, combined the issues June–July, and October–November, 1940.

Current History changed from semi-monthly to monthly, February, 1941. Subscription price remains the same.

Custom House Guide, 1941 edition, is now being distributed, and is of vital importance to our national defense and foreign trade. New features are the revision of the "No Consul List" to show the location of American offices having consular jurisdiction over foreign ports having no American consular office, and an increased Marine Section showing in color the flags and funnels of tow boat and lighterage companies, plus many additional steamship lines. The volume is thumb indexed for convenience in locating information. Many departments are revised and brought up to date, and the Port and general information supplies much valuable information. Supplementary service to this annual Guide is issued monthly under the name of the American Import and Export Bulletin.

Epidemiological Report, N. Y., published by the League of Nations, has been discontinued.

Equal Rights omitted June, July, August and September, 1940, numbers. No extension given.

Far Eastern Affairs has discontinued publication.

The Farmers Guide changed to The Indiana Farmers Guide with January 25, 1941, vol. 97, no. 2. Subscription price is 60 cents a year, $1.00 for two years, and $2.00 for five years.

France en Liberte has been suspended.

French Digest has been suspended.

French Vogue has been temporarily suspended.

Great Britain Colonial Reports (H.M.S.O.) have been suspended.

Guide to Current Official Statistics (H.M.S.O.) has been suspended with vol. 17.

Heirlooms was discontinued with October, 1940. Unexpired subscriptions will be fulfilled by Hobbies.

Hollywood Spectator suspended publication with the issue of June 15th, 1940. Resumed with February 15th, 1941. All subscriptions extended.

Hudson River Magazine, published at Hudson, N. Y., was started under the title Echo, its purpose being to print the works of Hudson Valley authors and win appreciation for that region's great history. The title was later changed to Hudson River Magazine, and the editorial objective revised. The place of short stories was minimized, but historical sketches play an important part, and important events, institutions, and personalities of the Hudson Valley are regularly reported. The magazine was suspended from February, 1940, to January, 1941, but is now revived, price $1.50 a year, 15c a copy.

International Review of Poultry Science has been temporarily suspended.

Japan Times and Mail (daily), Tokyo, combined with Japan Advertiser (daily), with November 11, 1940.

Japan Times (weekly), Tokyo, combined with Trans Pacific (weekly).

Journal of Endocrinology, London, the last number published is vol. 2, no. 1. Owing to present unsettled conditions the publication is now irregular. It is hoped to publish vol. 2, no. 2, in the near future.

Law and Business has been discontinued.

Liberty Mail Order Digest is now called Progressive Mailtrade.

Lone Star Tennis has been suspended. The editor has been drafted for one year in the Army, and hopes to resume publication at expiration of that time.

The Movies and the People Who Make Them has resumed publication, organized in the same manner and written by the same individuals. The format has been made in the interest of convenience and economy. Each issue can be handled as a unit, and also be kept for continual reference in any standard 6 x 9 three-ring binder. All future issues will carry a cumulated index to previous issues. The annual subscription price is $2.50, published every other Friday, 26 nos. a year, and all subscriptions have been extended three months. Each issue will cover about twenty, or more, feature films and a complete list of all productions of the major studios.

The National Aeronautic Association, as a membership organization, is no longer permitted to accept subscriptions to National Aeronautics. However, membership may be had at $3.00 a year which will entitle a member to receive this, the official publication of the association.

National Bureau of Economic Research, Bulletin, ceased with no. 80. In its place will be published Occasional Papers, no. 1 of which was published in December, 1940. Subscribers to the Bulletin will receive the Occasional Papers.

Negro Business has merged in Service with March, 1940.

Neutral World has been discontinued.

"The News" and Automatic Heat and Air Conditioning have merged in Domestic Engineering.

Northwestern Miller, through an error in numbering, omitted no. 2, of vol. 205.

Observatory, Cambridge, Eng., will be issued in six numbers instead of twelve monthly numbers, beginning with 1941.

Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter omitted no. 7, of vol. 139, in numbering only. Vol. 139, no. 6, was February 17, 1941, and vol. 139, no. 8, was February 24th, 1941.

Pacific Builder and Engineer has been separated into two publications effective with November, 1940. The issue of the first Saturday in each month is called The Pacific Builder and Engineer (12 nos.), subscription price $2.00. The succeeding Saturdays of each month the issue is called Construction News Bulletin (40 nos.), subscription price in the Pacific Northwest $7.00, elsewhere $12.00. There are special combination rates for both publications to addresses in the Pacific Northwest of $7.60 per year; elsewhere $14.00 per year.

Petroleum Times, London, has changed from a weekly to bi-weekly publication.

Picture Play Magazine changed its title to Your Charm with February 12, 1941.

Plan Age was discontinued with vol. 6, no. 9–10, and was replaced with Planning Pamphlets which started with no. 3. Nos. 1 and 2 were issued in 1939 and were simply reprints of Plan Age, vol. 5, nos. 5 and 7. The publisher is unable to furnish the first two numbers of the Planning Pamphlets in any form, but libraries having Plan Age, volume 5, will have the material complete. Pamphlet no. 1, was a reprint of "Democracies Must Also Plan." Pamphlet no. 2, was a reprint of "War and our Latin American Trade."

Poor Richard's Biblomac has been temporarily suspended. It may be resumed later on a basis of eight issues annually.

Royal Society of Edinburgh, Proceedings and Transactions. Owing to war conditions, the Proceedings, beginning with vol. LXI, 1940–41, will be published in two sections: A, the Mathematical and Physical, including Astronomy, Chemistry, Mathematics, Metallurgy, Meteorology, and Physics; and B, the Biological, including Anatomy, Anthropology, Botany, Geology, Pathology, Physiology, and Zoology. No change is proposed in the present form of the Transactions. The obituary notices, proceedings of meetings, list of Fellows, etc., formerly published as Appendices at the end of each session's volume of Proceedings, will be published separately.

Seagoer, London, has been suspended.

Soap Gazette and Perfumer has merged in American Perfumer. No December, 1940, number was published, the subscriber receiving instead the first 1941 issue of American Perfumer.

Socialist Review has been suspended.

Society of Engineers, Journal, London, beginning with 1940 are issuing two numbers a year instead of four, probably in June and December.

Sovietland and Moscow News have been temporarily banned from the mails.

Studio Gardening Annual, "Gardens and Gardening" London, will not be published for 1941.

Taxpayers Digest has merged in Texas Digest.

Time, beginning with May 5; 1941, has published an International Air Express Edition in English. The regular subscription price of this edition is $10.00 a year.

The Times, London, Educational Supplement, does not publish a separate Index. The last issue, however, published in December of each year contains an Index covering the full calendar year. It would be preferable, therefore, for subscribers to bind their copies of the Educational Supplement by the calendar year, rather than by any volume year.

Tubercle, London, combined the August and September, 1940, numbers to complete vol. 21. The new volume will start January, 1941, and continue through December, 1941. Index for vol. 21 will appear in the first issue of vol. 22.

United States Trade Mark Association Bulletin has merged in Trade Mark Reporter with Jan. 1941. The new magazine will be larger and contain more material than on the average appeared in both the old Bulletin and Reporter. Subscription price is $10.00.

University of Newark Law Review will publish only two numbers a year, beginning with volume 6.

Workers Age has been discontinued.

World Lumber Digest has been combined with a number of other periodicals to form Foreign Commerce Weekly and the Forest Products Section of the Industrial Reference Service.

Zukunft, Die, has been discontinued.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Library of Congress. After having been out of print for some time, the Library of Congress publication, "The Constitution of the United States; an account of its travels since September 17, 1787," is once more available and will be sent free of charge to any non-commercial library or educational institution. Address: Publications Office, Library of Congress, Washington.

Information Exchange Catalog. The Information Exchange on Education and National Defense, which has recently been organized in the U. S. Office of Education as a clearing house for ideas and materials on education and national defense, announces its first catalog. It lists 103 items which have been organized into 24 loan packets. Publications, posters, outlines, study units, pictorial booklets, reprints of magazine articles all touching on some defense plan or problem are listed in the catalog. They come from institutions as widely separated as Seattle, Wash., and Columbia, S. C. Loan packets listed are made up of materials contributed by schools and colleges, organizations and other interested individuals and groups. Each loan packet contains a number of different materials related to a particular topic, as: The Role of the Schools in the National Emergency; Understanding and Practicing Democracy; Improving School and Community; Conserving the Nation's Natural Resources; Building and Preserving Good Health; Understanding the World About Us; Vocational Education and National Defense; Libraries and National Defense. Some packets contain materials entirely within one field, such as elementary or secondary. Others contain materials of more general interest and value in two or more fields. Materials may be borrowed for a period of two weeks from the time they are received. Franked envelopes or franked labels are provided for the return of the materials without payment of postage. When materials are returned, others may be requested. A copy of the catalog listing these materials may be secured by writing to Information Exchange on Education and National Defense, U. S. Office of Education, Federal Security Agency, Washington, D. C.

FRANCESCO TRIVELLINI'S EDITED AND UNEDITED TRANSLATIONS FROM TRUEBA AND FERNÁN CABELLERO

By Joseph G. Fucilla

Francesco Trivellini was born at Bassano del Grappa, Italy, on January 10, 1812. He attended the Collegio Santa Caterina (now Liceo Marco Foscarini) after which he pursued theological studies at Vicenza and Venice from 1830 to 1834, the year of his ordination as a priest. In 1836 he was invited to teach in the local ginnasio comunale and became its director four years later. He resigned from his post in 1864. Three years previous to this time he had become director of the Civico Museo at Bassano and remained in charge until 1884. He died on September 9, 1897. Besides containing the bibliographical rarities cited in this paper, the Civico Museo also owns autograph manuscript translations by Trivellini of Balmes, Wieland, Gessner, Ossian and Racine.

WALT WHITMAN IN ITALY

A Bibliography

By REA MCCAIN

I. BIBLIOGRAPHIES

McKenzie, Kenneth. Bibliography. (In Conferenze sulla letteratura americana. Bari, Gius. Laterza & Figli, 1922.)

Selective list of English and Italian writings.

Praz, Mario. Bibliography. (Appended to article, Walt Whitman, Enciclopedia italiana, Vol. XXXV. Rome, Istituto della Enciclopedia, 1937.)

Selective list of English, French, and Italian writings.

Anonymous. Bibliography of Italian writings on Walt Whitman. Studi Inglesi. Florence, British Institute, October, 1938.

List of the more important Italian writings.

II. TRANSLATIONS

Gamberale, Luigi. Canti scelti. (Biblioteca universale, N. 169.) Milan, Sonzogno, 1887. Reprint, 1932.

Brief biography and translations of 48 poems.

——. Canti scelti. (Biblioteca universale, N. 198.) Milan, Sonzogno, 1890. Reprint, 1934.

Translations of the preface to the first edition of Leaves of Grass and of 71 poems.

——. Foglie di erba. (Biblioteca dei popoli, N. VII.) Palermo, Remo Sandron, 1907. Revised, reprinted in 2 volumes, 1923.

Translations of all poems included in the complete edition of Whitman's poetry. Occasionally inaccurate. Conscientious effort to retain characteristic structure of verse. Many changes from versions found in Canti scelti. Monumental piece of work. Accepted as definitive.

V. V. S. Poesie scelte. (Biblioteca di letteratura, N. 137–138.) Milan, Carlo Signorelli, 1932.

Sincere and spirited translations of 25 poems.

III. BIOGRAPHIES AND CRITICISMS

Angioletti, Giovanni Battista. (In Scrittori d'Europa. Milan, Libreria d'Italia. 1928.)

Brief passage. Interesting because, although generally unfavorable ("To us he seems a theorizing humanist, a magniloquent democrat."), it carries the suggestion that Whitman's poetry will continue to be discussed.

Chimenti, F. Note di letteratura americana. Bari, Pansini, 1894.

Competent sketch of life and summary of writings.

De Bosis, Adolfo. (In preface to Amori ac silentio e le rime sparse. Roma, Alberto Stock, 1924.)

Brief tribute. Significant because of coupling of Shelley and Whitman, and because of similarity in lyric praise of labor.

Formichi, Carlo. (Preface to Harrison S. Morris's Walt Whitman. Florence, Bemporad, 1920.)

Brief appraisal. Union in Whitman of romantic fantasy and religious mysticism. Thought resembles Indian Upanishad. Sexual references have religious implication, do not arouse obscene instincts. Definitely prophetic.

Jannaccone, Pasquale. La poesia di Walt Whitman. Turin, Roux, 1898.

Elaborate study of Whitman's prosody. Analyzes elements of rhythm and assonance. Traces chronological development of various characteristic usages. Notes former periods of history in which similar verse phenomena had appeared. Contends entire poetic system evolved from impact of thought upon established rhythm.

Lesca, Giuseppe. Carducci lettore di Walt Whitman. (In L'Archiginnasio, Anno XXXLI 1–3, 1937.) Reprint. Bologna, Cooperativa Tipografica Azzoguidi, 1937.

Quotations from letters of Carducci to Nencioni concerning Walt Whitman. Interesting as personal tribute to Italian critic and to American poet. Comparison made between emotions aroused by American Civil War and Italian Risorgimento.

McKenzie, Kenneth. Whitman. (In Conferenze sulla letteratura americana. Bari, Gius. Laterza & Figli, 1922.)

Part of a lecture delivered at the Royal University of Rome. Brief description of Whitman as departing from the English tradition. Lecture explanatory, rather than defensive. Truth more important than good taste. Literary form unimportant to profound and sincere observor of life. Equality of man still a dream. Whitman, lover of nature and of mankind.

Morris, Harrison S. Walt Whitman, poeta della democrazia. Florence, Bemporad & Figli, 1920.

Biography by American friend of Whitman. Translated by H. Nelson Gay for a series of Americani illustri published in Florence. Valuable for the intimate picture of the man in his own surroundings and among his friends. Disclaims critical purpose, but quotes enough to give a fair idea of the subject matter of the poems. (Published in English without the preface and concluding chapter, and with the addition of a few details as Walt Whitman, a Brief Biography with Reminiscences. Cambridge, Harvard University Press, 1929.)

Nencioni, Enrico. Saggi critici della letteratura inglese. Florence, Le Monnier, 1897.

Reprint of essays published in Nuova Antologia. Discussion to be found in Section IV of this bibliography.

Papini, Giovanni. Walt Whitman. (Nuova Antologia. June 16, 1908. Reprinted in Ventiquattro cervelli. Ancona, G. Puccini & Figli, 1913. Reprinted in Ritratti stranieri. Florence, Vallecchi, 1932.)

Warm tribute to Whitman as inspirer of Papini's youth. Brief summary of critical studies in English and Italian. Poet in ancient sense of prophet. Objective of poet: search for spiritual activity in the world and in men, and for the ideas in the spirit. Purpose: to awake, to incite, to train men. Effort to reach the universal, to love at last even the ugly and the evil. Sympathy for the humble, the enslaved, the criminal. Originates a democratic mythology. Body at service of the spirit. Necessary to love everything in the universe without too much respect for the revered traditions, the accepted conventions, and the stupid rules of good society.

Pisa, Giulio. (In Studi letterari. Milan, Baldini, Castoldi & Co., 1899.)

Brief biography supplemented by translations of many carefully selected poems. Attitude enthusiastic, rather than critical or discriminating. Study possesses unity of conception — but is neither challenging, nor convincing.

"In truth, if we ask of a poet plastic art, harmonious balance between the parts of his poem, restraint, compactness, mastery of his art, those qualities which are characteristic of the Greek and the Latin mind, and which make the masterpieces of classic art immortal, no: Whitman is not a great poet. . . . He is the poet of a world which is rising; he is conscious of a new poetry, . . . he goes in paths untrodden, . . . preaching to men the worship of nature, . . . the triumphs and the glory of labor, great human solidarity, life free and strong. He, a new Christ, embraces with his love all humanity."

Praz, Mario. Walt Whitman. (Enciclopedia italiana, Vol. XXXV. Rome, Istituto dell'Enciclopedia, 1937.)

Brief but comprehensive study of the life and writings of Whitman. Discusses physical and sociological implications of poems. Criticism reserved and discriminating

"The meaningless and superficial lists, the vulgarities of an unselective genius become trifling defects before the abounding joy of the better part of Whitman's book. . . . But better than all the poems of Pandean joy, Whitman — after his experience in the war — wrote thoughtful verses of overpowering solemnity in which the thought of death rules. In the most beautiful of these poems, Come lovely and soothing death, the American poet speaks with accents very like those of the author of the Cantico delle creature."

Rho Servi, Lidia. Intorno a Walt Whitman. Turin, Arti Grafiche L. Giachino, 1933.

Analysis of Whitman — not a prophet, not gifted with great speculative power; assimilated diverse elements, transforming them into a faith. From Darwinian evolution passed to the illusion of a magnificent and progressive social order — its end the age of gold promised to men of good will. Accepted Marxian democracy. Believed in an imperialistic position for America and its civilization. Reconciled nationalism and humanitarianism. Lacked comprehension of social problems. In later poems more definitely Christian, becoming conscious of struggle between good and evil.
